INTRODUCTION initiative to take a college entrance exam and submit an application for admission to a four-year institution. If the financial aid system is providing equal educational opportunities and access to postsecondary schooling, one would expect no substantial differences by family income in the four-year college enrollment rates of students whose academic records show they are likely to be admitted to a four-year college and who have taken the necessary steps to be considered for admission. The findings of this study indicate that this is indeed generally the case: there were no substantial differences by family income in the four-year college enrollment rates of college-qualified high school graduates who apply to and are accepted for admission at four-year colleges. The report begins by examining some of the important background characteristics of the 1992 high...

Thorough guideline! Its this type of good read. It is really simplistic but shocks from the 50 percent from the publication. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
